

Pope Benedict Is Buried With Notable Rites

Solemnity Hovers over Cathedral as Body is Placed in Vault of St. Peter

FOUR CASKETS ARE USED

Only Cardinals, Church Dignitaries and Nobility See Closing Services

Rome—Pope Benedict's mortal remains were interred Thursday in the vault of St. Peter.

With ceremonies unforgettable for picturesqueness and solemnity, the body was placed in its casket and borne to the sarcophagus.

Only cardinals of the church, attending clergy, members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the Roman nobility viewed the impressive rites.

Starting at 8 p. m. the services were finished an hour later. A vast throng stood outside the cathedral during the ceremony.

ARRIVE WITH CANDLES

The burial service was begun when the cardinals of the sacred college, each carrying a lighted candle, began arriving by interior corridors and stairways from the Sistine chapel in the adjacent vatican.

They were escorted by the patriarchs and heads of the religious orders and took their seats in the sacrament chapel where the body of Pope Benedict was still lying in state.

Then there arrived from the sacristy of St. Peter's where it had formed, the procession of the canons singing the Miserere.

In the chapel three separate groups were formed by the relatives, personal servants and domestic prelates of the late pontiff. The Swiss guards were massed in the background while the noble and palatine guards were grouped closely about the bier.

PLACED IN CASKET

The pope's private chaplains and secretaries advanced toward the bier, knelt and then slowly lifted the body of the pontiff and placed it in a wooden coffin lined with white silk.

Cardinal Merry Del Val, as arch priest of the basilica of St. Peter's, descended from the altar with all of his assistants and took his place in front of the coffin.

The bier, borne by the four private chaplains of the pope, was surrounded by a detachment of the noble guards while the canons of St. Peter acted as an escort of honor to the sacred college.

Slowly as the bier moved out from the sacrament chapel into the main body of the basilica, the members of the sacred college fell into line two by two, then the members of the pope's family all dressed in deepest mourning and finally priests and clergy.

CHOIR SINGS

The procession moved slowly, to the singing of the Sistine choir, accompanied by the huge organs of St. Peter's.

The spectacle was seen in its full grandeur when after crossing from the right to the left nave of the basilica, it swung under the great central nave halting for a few seconds in front of the bronze statue of St. Peter and next in front of the confessional where the statue of Pope Clement XIII kneels in the act of prayer.

The procession then moved toward the entrance to the vault, the choir beginning the anthem, In Paradisum. One by one the highest dignitaries of the church in their pontifical robes gave absolution. The anthem In Paradisum was then sung, after which Cardinal Merry Del Val gave the body of the pontiff final absolution.

The four private chaplains placed the plain wooden coffin in one of cypress. Then three bags containing the gold, silver and bronze medals struck during Pope Benedict's reign and a parchment containing a brief history of the reign, were placed in the coffin. A white veil was spread over the pontiff's face, and the body was covered with a red silken shroud. The coffin lid was then nailed and over each nail was affixed the seal of the magisterdomo and the archpriest of the vatican. The casket of cypress was placed in one of zinc, which in turn was enclosed in a chestnut case and amid the chanting of the choir deposited in the temporary sarcophagus.

SAYS LIQUOR MADE MISS RAPPE ILL

San Francisco—The defense in the case of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle was expected Thursday to continue its drive against the state's evidence to bring several new witnesses to show that Virginia Rappe, whose death caused the manslaughter charge to be brought against Arbuckle, had been in bad health for some time. The testimony of several physicians will also be heard.

Eugene W. Presbury, scenario writer of Hollywood, testified Wednesday that in March 1917 at the Hotel Hollywood Miss Rappe had suffered from an attack of illness after taking two drinks of liquor.

"I'm a fool to drink. It always does that to me," Presbury quoted Miss Rappe as saying after she became conscious again.

PLANS REVOLT IN MEXICO TO OUST OBREGON

Cantu, Former Governor of Lower California, Seeks Money to Carry on Fight

El Centro, Calif. — General Esteban Cantu, former governor of Lower California, is in New York arranging American financial backing for a new revolution against the Obregon government, according to his associates here Thursday.

"The revolution is talked constantly in Mexico," Cantu's present governor, Epigmenio Ybarra, has kept the rebels down because of personal popularity. But when he leaves office the storm is expected, will break, Ybarra went to Ensenada Thursday to confer with federal officials regarding the situation. He will depart for Mexico City as soon as Jose Lugo, the new governor, arrives at Mexico to replace him.

If Cantu can get the money backing he is after, he plans to have the rebellion sweep over all Baja, Calif., Sonora and other northern states, until he can extend southward and drive Obregon out of Mexico City. Sonora and Lower California are much favored by revolutionaries as states in which to start revolutions.

The new governor, formally an under secretary of the department of the interior in Mexico City, is known to the "people of the northwest and Cantu figures on launching his blow before the new executive has fairly taken hold of the reins of office.

Much mystery surrounds the identity of the financial interests which are reported to be backing Cantu.

"Cantu would like to be a big man, but he's not," Gov. Ybarra said just before leaving for Ensenada. "He is known to 30,000 Americans in this area but 15,000,000 outside never heard of him."

FIGHT FOR HILL ESTATE DELAYED

Governor Must Appoint New Judge to Succeed Judge E. W. Bazille, Deceased

By United Press Leased Wire. St. Paul—The contest of heirs over administration of the estate of the late Mrs. Mary J. Hill was indefinitely postponed Thursday.

The death of Judge E. W. Bazille, probate judge, Wednesday, automatically eliminates Judge A. E. Doe of Stillwater, who was named for Judge Bazille during his illness. The judgeship is now vacant, and will remain so until Governor Preus appoints a successor to Judge Bazille.

The Hill case was scheduled to come before Judge Doe Thursday. Louis W. Hill and one sister Mary Hill were opposing seven other children who petitioned to make the Northwestern Trust company administrators of the estate. Louis Hill petitioned for the administration himself. He claimed it was his mother's wish that he obtain her signature.

Mrs. Hill who died last November, left an estate amounting to more than $12,000,000. She was the widow of James H. Hill, pioneer railroad builder of the northwest.

POLICE WILL STOP GARLAND IN FREE LOVE INTENTIONS

Strange Philosopher Tells of Love for Girl Who Wrecked His Home

By United Press Leased Wire. Middleboro, Mass.—Charles Garland, young philosopher, will be arrested if he attempts to live with any woman but his legal wife at his farm near here, the police warned Thursday.

Chief of Police Alden C. Sisson, in a statement to the United Press said: "I am interested at all in what Garland says. I am not interested in what the man is alleged to have said regarding free love or a free love colony, but if evidence is presented to me whereby any law is broken by Garland he will be treated the same as any other individual. At the present time there is no evidence in my possession that would warrant any move."

Garland, dreamer, disciple of individualism, whose unconventional ideas and love for Lillian Conrad, a soul mate, wrecked his home, revealed part of his strange philosophy and some of his innermost thoughts in an interview with the United Press Thursday.

HE LOVES GIRL

It was at April, farm, a desolate little clearing in the woods 10 miles from Middleboro that Garland told his story. "His home, a forlorn little shack of one room is built of hard-wood timbers," he said frankly, "I love Lillian Conrad."

"More than your wife?"

"Yes, our love was born of a complete understanding, and of a comradeship in facing the problems of life."

Referring to his relations with Miss Conrad, the youth said she had been his home with him frequently and that it was probable that she would return in the spring.

Garland does not believe in the conventional marriage ceremony. "I do not believe in the legal ceremony," he said, "adding that he was willing to live with Miss Conrad and face public opinion and even arrest."

Ralph spent $35 to talk to me on the long distance Wednesday night and I guess he got his money's worth," declared Kitty. "He scolded me for giving out our engagement without notifying him, but I wanted to give him a thrill."

"When he wrote me the other day that it annoyed him to hear people say I was married to Jack Wilson, my former stage partner, and asked me to publicly deny it, I decided to go him one better—and announce our engagement."

"Perhaps I should have waited until I got my hands on that divorce decree," added Kitty, who filed suit in England a year ago for separation from her present husband, the Honorable Henry Boreford. "But I expect my divorce very soon—and when I get it, I am going to marry Ralph."

DOCTRINE OF BRANDEGEE IS STIRRING U. S.

Executive's Power in Foreign Matters is Thrown Into Maelstrom of Doubt

MAY SET NEW PRECEDENT

Break is Expected Between Isolation Bloc and Secretary of State on Rights

By David Lawrence. (Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.) Washington—Senator Brandegee's pronouncement that the United States is not bound by the foreign policy of the president or secretary of state without the consent of the senate is the sensation of the hour.

Foreign governments whose representatives have been at a loss to understand the constitutional system of the United States ever since an American president signed a contract which the senate repudiated are bewildered over the new turn of events.

The truth is a controversy has been brewing under the surface between President Harding's former colleagues on the Republican side of the senate chamber and the secretary of state which it carried to a logical conclusion may mean a revolutionary change in the importance of a secretary of state or American ambassadors abroad.

DOCTRINE NOT NEW

Senator Brandegee is the leader of the "isolation bloc." But the views he expresses about the necessity of getting the consent of the senate before any international act of the United States government can be binding is not something of recent origin. The late Philander Knox, once a secretary of state himself, became converted to that doctrine after he became a member of the senate and it was with difficulty that President Harding coaxed him to eliminate from his famous peace resolution a phrase "directing the chief executive to negotiate a treaty with Germany." Besides Senator Brandegee there are some senators of the so-called liberal school and some Democrats of the William Jennings Bryan philosophy on foreign affairs who believe a diplomatic note exchanged between governments should not be sent without the full approval of the American senate.

QUESTION IS SERIOUS

President Harding himself has recognized the weight of the movement which seeks to prevent the chief executive by a series of notes from committing the government to a course of action from which the senate can not be extricated itself. It is still a matter of debate in congressional circles whether the members who voted for the declaration of war with Germany after the chief executive had publicly proclaimed the step would have voted for war if the issue had arisen in congress without any previous exchange of notes on the submarine question by which the executive felt America was committed to go to war.

The problem of an executive's right to negotiate any kind of an agreement with a foreign government has suddenly been thrown into the maelstrom of after-the-war controversies, and while this question arose over the sending of an American representative to attend the Genoa conference, it will establish an important precedent.

Mr. Brandegee of Connecticut doesn't deny the right of the president to send an ambassador or any other personal agent to attend unofficially or otherwise an international conference such as is to be held at Genoa, but he insists that neither the president nor his spokesmen can commit the United States to any policy which isn't first approved by the senate.

SALOON STANDS IN WAY OF ARID STATE, DRY OFFICIALS SAY

Most Bootlegging Is Across Bar, Smith Charges—Conditions Improving

Madison — The old time saloon, ostensibly emasculated by the prohibition laws, must be destroyed before prohibition becomes really effective, Stanley Smith, state dry enforcement agent, declared Thursday.

Saloonkeepers can't understand there is such a thing as prohibition, he said. They can't forget their old habits of selling real liquor, and, as a result, most of the bootleg whisky sold in Wisconsin goes across a bar. Smith said that back yard bootlegging was not popular or extensive in their activities, which would indicate that the liquor customers were equally unable to comprehend the present aridity.

Brass rails, mahogany bars and swinging doors must be abated before prohibition becomes a complete success, Smith declared.

Local police officers in Wisconsin, by the way, are doing more to enforce prohibition at the present time than state and federal dry-officers together, Smith said.

"Conditions are improving every day and I believe the time will come when state and federal officers will be needed only to clean up especially bad situations."

Resolutions Favoring Canal and Shoals Projects Are Ready to Present

GOMPERS' VIEWS AWAITED

Insurgents Plan Rump Conference Friday Night if Their Plans Are Spurned

By James T. Kolbert. By United Press Leased Wire. Washington — Resolutions supporting Henry Ford's offer for the government nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and the St. Lawrence waterway will be presented to the agricultural conference by the committee on waterway transportation, it was learned authoritatively by the United Press Thursday.

The St. Lawrence resolution was completed Thursday in the face of powerful opposition from eastern interests led by Congressman Tenney, of New York. The Muscle Shoals resolution is still under discussion; the principal feature being whether the name of Ford should be included.

WOULD INDORE BLOC

Another resolution by the agriculture and price relations committee endorsing the farm bloc is practically complete. One group of the committee favors censuring President Harding for his opposition to the farm bloc but it was decided that support of the bloc will constitute implied censure of Harding. The resolution will contain commendation for President Harding's farm relief program as enunciated in his opening address to the conference.

Calmers heard among the insurgents of the conference labored Thursday to head off the threatened rump conference by pointing the way to a coup at the expense of the administration. This would take the form of calling upon President Harding to enact a relief program as provided in his opening address to the conference, with an added price guarantee, or other insurance feature.

GOMPERS TO SPEAK

A new complication to the already long list of bills during the three days is provided when Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, a delegate, makes a position before the conference. Gompers fears that cuts in freight rates will be translated into lower wages for workers all along the line. He will tell the conference that he cannot be expected to be the spokesman for the industrial union. If the insurgents carry out their plans, they will hold a rump conference Friday night. But if the saner leaders prevail, their strength will be thrown into a fight for adoption of President Harding's program.

SEEK PRICE GUARANTEE

If the administration will legalize cooperative marketing, reduce freight rates, extend liberal credits and give the farmer some sort of insurance against heavy loss, such as a price guarantee or some other form of price stabilization, agriculture will have all the desired legislation, the most far-reaching of the progressives declared.

Raymond A. Pearson, president of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, urged a nationwide agricultural research program to enable the farmer to produce scientifically. Most of the farmers, Pearson said, pursue their work in a more or less haphazard manner.

Richard T. Ely, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, urged a national policy for land utilization.

"The United States has never had a real land policy, and consequently the country as a whole suffers," Ely declared.

Think Cox May Seek Presidency In 1924

Republican Leaders Charged at Jackson Banquet With "Forsaking Soul of Lincoln for Spleen of Henry Cabot Lodge"

By United Press Leased Wire. Dayton, Ohio.—The national and state Democratic campaign for the coming congressional elections and the presidential vote in 1924 was considered under way Thursday following James M. Cox's speech at the Jackson day banquet here.

Cox, defeated for the presidency a year ago, broke his long silence with an attack on the Harding administration, Henry Cabot Lodge and the arms conference and a demand for revival of the league of nations.

"We are ready for the next fight," Cox said. "We stand in our very tracks, just where we were when the votes were counted. We have not retreated a step."

"The declaration was taken in some quarters here as indicating Cox would again seek the nomination for president in 1924."

Cox charged "the present leaders of the Republican party have forsaken the soul of Abraham Lincoln for the spleen of Henry Cabot Lodge" and declared the administration was responsible for present industrial conditions, because it deserted the policies of Woodrow Wilson.

"The distress in Russia is charged to the terrors of sovietism; the distress in America to the treachery of Lodge."

Senator Pomeroy, Ohio, the other speaker at the banquet attacked the Republican vote on seating Senator Newberry.

J. P. Tumulty, former secretary to President Wilson, and other party leaders, attended the banquet.

HOUSE LEADERS PLAN TO CUT U. S. ARMY TO 100,000

Aim is to Save Taxpayer Approximately $68,000,000 Coming Year

Washington—A reduction of more than one-third in the authorized strength of the American army is planned by several of the most influential Republican and Democratic leaders of the house, it was learned Thursday, as the appropriations committee began consideration of next year's funds for the war department.

Although reduction of armaments has been blocked in the arms conference, due to the stand of France, house leaders believe the United States can safely cut its army down from an authorized strength of 137,000 for the present year to 100,000 for the next fiscal year.

Some members will make efforts to reduce down to 75,000.

Representative Anthony, Kansas, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee, is one of those who believes the house will demand a reduction to 100,000. Should this big slash be made the saving to the taxpayers will be at least $68,000,000, or about 68 cents for every person in the country.

The war department is certain to oppose such a reduction, and in this may be backed by President Harding, who has indicated he would accept only a small reduction in the army.

MASS TROOPS FOR FIGHT ON MEXICAN LINE

Strained Relations Between Mexico and Guatemala Expected to Develop War

Nogales, Son., Mexico—War is threatening between Mexico and Guatemala, advisers received Thursday from Mexico City declared.

Mexico had instructed her minister resident at Guatemala to withdraw from that state and return home immediately, according to Thursday's reports.

Guatemala is massing troops at Peten near the Suchiate river, the boundary of the two republics, preparatory to an invasion of Mexican territory, it was said.

Relations between the republics have been strained since General Orellana, revolutionary chief, overthrew the government of President Herrera.

NULIFY FACT

Orellana immediately nullified the pact taken by Guatemala in the past adopted last year by Honduras, Salvador and Guatemala creating the federation of Central American states. Supporters of the Herrera government, fleeing for their lives, have crossed the line into Mexico and have taken refuge in the state of Chiapas. The Mexican government is considered friendly to this faction.

General Orellana's forces, however, are determined to capture the Herrera forces, and have attempted several times to cross into Mexico and arrest the refugees.

They have met with resistance from Mexican troops on each occasion, according to reports and several skirmishes have taken place.

Thursday's advices said that Orellana's army is now making for a full force attempt to rush the Suchiate river, drive through the Mexican troops, capture the Herrera faction and return.

President Obregon has ordered immediate reinforcements rushed to Chiapas according to the reports.

Packer Employees Hint They Will Follow U. S. Advice and Return to Plants

By United Press Leased Wire. Chicago—Striking employees of the big five packers will return to work within two days, it was believed here Thursday.

On the eve of balloting of men to determine whether they are willing to return to their former employment, union officials predicted the men would give up the fight in every packing center but St. Paul and Omaha.

Ballots sent out by C. C. Hayes, president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, will be marked Thursday afternoon.

"We have been informed by federal commissioners that workers should not hold out any longer in hope of mediation," said Hayes. "We are taking the vote on advice of government agencies under the department of labor."

The strike started nearly two months ago when employees walked out following refusal of packers to recognize the union.

DR. EVANS PICKS IMPORTANT TOPIC FOR HIS LECTURE

America in World Affairs Will Be Discussed at Sunday Forum

America's relations with the rest of the world is the biggest and most vital problem before this country today. The limitations conference in Washington and the conferences in Europe all were devoted to a discussion of this same matter. Secretary Charles E. The importance of this problem should add interest to the lecture by Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college, before the People's Forum in Lawrence Memorial chapel next Sunday evening. Dr. Evans will discuss "America in World Relations" from his wealth of experience and study. Dr. Evans is a forceful talker and a keen student.

Ripon college has shown remarkable progress under the leadership of Dr. Evans. He was at the head of a college on the Pacific coast when Ripon needed a president and he was so well thought of that he was made a splendid offer to return to the Wisconsin school.

Dr. Evans is in great demand as a lecturer. He spoke in no less than a dozen places since the first of the year and has a heavy schedule for the remainder of the winter.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turps Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw his through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. adv.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full family supply of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it. Pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

EASY TO CREATE SUSPICION HERE

If it appears suspicious to stoop to tie your shoe while walking through a cucumber field it also creates suspicion to look for house numbers in the dark.

Philip R. Hymers of 887 Elliot, learned this somewhat unpleasantly Wednesday evening. He went over on Pacific street to look at a house which was for sale. Being unable to ascertain house numbers in the dark he walked back and forth along the street and scrutinized front porches from close quarters for the elusive numbers.

Then somebody saw him and called the police. The patrol rolled out to the vicinity in short order and immediately sighted the "suspicious" character. Mr. Hymers explained his actions and he was assisted in locating the house he sought.

WERNER UPHOLDS CITY OF NEENAH IN NEW DECISION

Court Declares Municipality
Has Right to Regulate Common Carriers

A tentative decision made Wednesday by Judge E. V. Werner in the case of A. C. Homan against the City of Neenah, A. K. Ellis and other defendants, sustains the city of Neenah in the controversy and frees the other defendants of the charge of unlawful conspiracy.

The decision upholds the right of the city of Neenah to pass and enforce the three ordinances which Homan declared the city had no legal authority to pass, or enforce. It declares that in prescribing regulations for the use of the city's streets and to safeguard the public, the city council has the power to say when motor busses may enter or leave certain points and may also say where such "common carriers" may receive or discharge passengers. The decision also upholds the city's authority in charging a license fee for the operation of such carriers. In upholding the Neenah ordinance which requires the motor busses to leave certain points in the city either 10 minutes before or after the departure of inter urban cars from the same point going in the same direction, the decision states "There is something charitable in this ordinance when it is properly analyzed and carefully considered."

The conclusions of the court in the case are given as follows: "The enactment of all three ordinances by the common council of Neenah is legal and valid and within the power of the charter granted the defendant city. The three ordinances do not conflict with state laws. The ordinances are not unreasonable. The individual defendants named acted in good faith and were guilty of no fraud or unlawful act in introducing and enacting these ordinances."

The decision gives the plaintiff the privilege of filing a supplemental brief and argument with the court within ten days in answer to this decision. Unless the plaintiff calls the court's attention to something vital and of importance that may have been overlooked, the tentative decision will be adhered to.

SCHOOL COMMITTEES TO MEET SATURDAY NIGHT

A meeting of the joint committee of the common council and the board of education will be held at the city hall at 7:30 Saturday evening to discuss matters pertaining to the erection of new high school buildings. POSTAL WINDOWS TO BE CLOSED AT 6:30 HEREAFTER

Quit Earlier at Night to Start Earlier in the Morning

Windows at the postoffice will close at 6:30 in the evening instead of at 7 o'clock beginning Feb. 1, according to an announcement Thursday from Postmaster Gustave Keller.

A count kept by the clerks has revealed the fact that the amount of business done at the windows between 6 and 7 o'clock is almost negligible. This service was accommodating only a few people and was not adding perceptibly to the amount of business. Because clerks had to remain at the windows until 7 o'clock they could not get to work in the morning before 9 under postal regulations. This hampered early moving of the morning mail which arrives about 8:30. By closing the lobby windows at 6:30 in the evening these clerks will now go on duty at 8:30 in the morning and will get an earlier start in distributing morning mail. Postmaster Keller believes this will be of greater service to the public and increase the efficiency of the postoffice by that much.

All windows which will be closed a half hour earlier are stamp general delivery, money order, registry and treasury savings windows.

Mrs. Louis Bonini who has been with her son for the last ten days is expected to return to Appleton Friday.

Play Green Bay Here
Members of the basketball teams of the Woman's club will meet for practice at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Arrangements will also be made for the game with Green Bay at Appleton high school gymnasium Saturday, Feb. 4.

WANTS TO COLLECT PAY FOR WORK AS GUARDIAN

Papers have been filed in circuit court here by Jonathan D. Goodnough against Martin D. Archquette and other defendants asking foreclosure of a mortgage of $4,000 against the latter.

The claim states that in 1920 Goodnough was appointed guardian of Oscar Archquette and that in May of the same year because of his responsibilities as guardian he was given five notes amounting to $4,000 by the defendants. The notes were secured by a mortgage on more than 100 acres of land in Oneida. Through default of payment Goodnough is asking foreclosure. Hearing of the case will be held later.

STREET RAILWAY VS. THE JITNEY

The city of Kenosha Tuesday had the good judgment to vote, out a misfit city government of fifty years standing and obsolescence and replace it with a city manager. In addition, by a vote of 2,000 majority, it adopted an ordinance which practically bars jitney busses from the public streets. Two Michigan cities, Battle Creek and Muskegon, voted four to one in preference of street cars after experience with jitney service. In Des Moines, Iowa, where competition of the jitneys forced the street cars to discontinue operation, the people voted two to one for the street car as against the jitney. In Saginaw, Michigan, where no street cars have been running for the last six months the people are sick of the jitney service and there is an urgent public demand for some solution of the problem to permit the traction company to resume service.

During the year 1921, sixteen traction companies in the country went into receivership. In the last three years approximately one hundred traction companies were forced into insolvency. The street railway problem has become acutely serious in practically every city in the country of less than 100,000 population. The automobile and the jitney have played havoc with street railway investments and have put an almost complete stop to improvements and extensions. In most cities the jitney adds nothing to the service already rendered by the traction company, but is merely a duplication, and therefore wasteful competition. The time is near at hand when cities must make a definite choice between street railway facilities and jitney service. They cannot have both.

The city of Appleton is fortunate in having a public service company which renders excellent service and is disposed to keep its service abreast of the city's needs if given reasonable encouragement and cooperation; this in spite of the fact that capital has almost completely withdrawn its support from traction utilities in smaller cities as an unattractive and dangerous risk. If the city of Appleton expects the traction company to render adequate service and to provide additional facilities as the city grows, it should take measures to place the jitney busses under regulation, impose upon them some of the burdens the traction company has to assume, and remove them so far as possible as a direct competitor of the street railway. Appleton will be far ahead in the long run if it sticks to street railway service and cooperates with the company already established here in the expansion and profitable operation of its system.

DECIDING WHERE TO BUY

The success of a business depends on its ability to analyze the mental operations of the public, and to determine how people decide as to where they shall buy goods. The merchants who read the public mind most accurately get the business.

When one finds that he needs something, the question comes up where that article should be bought. From some source back in the mind the suggestion comes that such and such a place would be a good store to visit for that purpose. Whence comes that suggestion?

In the majority of cases, it is created by the store that has made the most effort to impress its reputation on the public mind. People remember the things they hear about constantly, and they forget other things that are rarely called to their attention. The advertised store conforms to the laws of psychology, by constantly calling public attention to its enterprises, its goods, its methods, its prices, and the advantages of trading with it. Consequently the inner consciousness, when asked what or where a person should buy, is apt to respond by suggesting certain advertised goods.

It is of course true that while a store by advertising can always draw in a lot of new trade, it cannot keep it unless it really does give good values. But advertising helps a store do that, notably in these two ways.

1. Advertising encourages merchants to handle big lots when such are offered to them at low figures. They know that by appealing to the public by advertising, they can swing these big lots and turn them into money in a short time. Thus buying in a large way and taking advantage of special opportunities, they are able to offer special values.

2. Advertising increases volume of trade, thus reducing the operating and overhead expense per article, making it possible to cut prices to the public. The advertised store buys and operates at low figures, and can thus make low prices.

FINANCIAL FACILITIES FOR THE FARMER

In such an important economic question as the financial requirements of the farmer there can ultimately be no savor of politics. The question must be settled along practical lines. President Harding defined the farmer's money-problems concisely and fairly in his address at the opening of the National Agricultural conference in Washington. At the same time he laid down by implication the economic phases of the issue.

The farmer is, as the president rightly said, a business man, and for his business the farmer needs facilities comparable to those provided for other lines of commerce. In effect, this is exactly the point of view that the farmer and the general public should have. Agriculture must be regarded as a business, as that is what it is.

Like the manufacturer, the farmer must have monetary facilities of two kinds. Capital is required for farm investment, just as capital is required for investment in factory buildings and grounds. This capital is not a liquid asset, and, as is quite obvious, it cannot be had from any commercial bank. In addition, however, the farmer must be able to borrow working capital, and it is this capital which must be in the form of a liquid asset, as it would not be good business for a bank to assume farm risk, any more than it would be reasonable for a bank to assume a mercantile or commercial risk.

One strong point was made by President Harding. He remarked that the farmer has not been the only loser in business. The manufacturer and the merchant have been losers, as well as the farmer. This is an idea that the farmer should take seriously, for it will give him the right point of view concerning business in general. The farmer's problems can be worked out, and will be. It is necessary, however, that they should be solved along sound lines, and not by makeshift. Financial principles must be recognized and followed. This conclusion applies to the manufacturer and merchant, too, for, it should be borne in mind, the most serious business hazard is the ability to borrow money on too easy terms or by unsound methods.

The Place of Penrose

It is vain to assert that Boies Penrose was the last of an old line of political bosses and that he will not be seen again. Penrose was merely a faithful interpreter of the desires of corporate interests in Pennsylvania and in the United States. These interests are alive and still in search of political spokesmen.

Conservative by choice and perfectly willing to work with the tools which politics gave him, Penrose was blood brother to notorious bosses of both parties. In nearly every party struggle his influence was against popular interest or democratic tendencies. During all his entire public life he was associated with evil government. In 1912, when competing delegations sought recognition at the Republican national convention, the Pennsylvania senator was among the most ruthless in rejecting those delegates who would have voted for Colonel Roosevelt.

It is absurd, however, to think that the type will pass out with individuals. Penrose rendered a service not to the people he was chosen to represent, but to corporate organizations that needed his kind of ability. The need has not died with Penrose. He has gone, but his function remains. It will continue to endure until economic organization and political principle are reconciled. The Pennsylvania boss was merely a symptom of that clash—NEW YORK GLOBE (Ind.)

An All-Women's Bank

Whether the all-women's bank just opened at Cleveland, Ohio, will be a success or not remains to be seen, but the idea will no doubt appeal to the women who still feel a bit shy and self-conscious in banking with what has hitherto been a strictly man-made institution.

Banks are not nearly as awe-inspiring as they once were, and are daily becoming more human, but there are many women who have not yet found it out. The stocking and the old teapot are much more familiar, and there are no cold and stiff formalities connected with the business of banking in such depositories.

If the Women's Savings Bank and Loan Company of Cleveland is successful, its success will go far toward removing women's distrust of banks. It will also demonstrate the ability to draw up and handle a financial institution from the ground up, for although women have gone beyond the experimental stage in their participation in business, it has been in a subordinate capacity. In the direction and management of large affairs they are just beginning to feel their way. — NEW YORK TRIBUNE (Rep.)

NATURE BEARS WATCHING

Nature is a very good surgeon if you keep a sharp eye on him. Without close watching, nature is not concerned at all with the victim of a wound or injury comes out with some deformity only so the wound is healed. The best surgeon is he who lets nature do most of the work but watches every minute and restrains or guides him when the patient's interests demand it.

Now take proud flesh. Proud flesh is one of nature's proudest achievements and it never does the patient one bit of good. Proud flesh is, in medical verbiage, exuberant granulation tissue. At the healing or replacement of a lost tissue is done by a soft, red, velvety, granular looking raw surface, as of a burn or other ulcer when it is in proper condition to be covered by the skin. It is made up of little tufts of new blood vessels cemented and filled in with tender new connective tissue. It amounts to a kind of scaffolding, upon which the new part is gradually built, but it makes skin or bone sometimes nature lays down too much granulation tissue, under some abnormal or prolonged irritation, and the scaffolding grows up to a height above the level of the surrounding structure, and that is proud flesh. It seems difficult or impossible for skin to grow uphill, so a wound or burn in which proud flesh develops is slow to heal until the scaffolding is cut back to the proper level—cutting is best done with scissors or other instrument in doctor's hands, since granulation tissue has no nerves and is therefore insensitive. The ancient practice of burning it down by means of caustics has been discarded because it was uncleanly and unsatisfactory besides being no less painful than the present method.

Any wound, no matter how trifling, heals more promptly if it is kept at rest. Everybody knows how difficult it is to heal a trifling fissure or crack in the lip, because it is so difficult to place the part at rest. But how few realize that this same principle applies to the treatment of wounds of the hand, and that splints, slings, casts, bandages and other seemingly cumbersome and superfluous supports are of value precisely because they afford some degree of rest to the wounded part. Now if one can apply to the treatment of a satisfactory collection of support it with adhesive plaster straps, even just at night the fissure will heal much more rapidly than it will under any mere medicinal application. And this same principle of physiological rest as an important aid to natural healing warrants the internal use of drugs, narcotics, pills and potions, in many cases of serious injury or inflammation which might terminate fatally without the use of drugs and the heroic use of them. Nature and drugs, intelligently used, make a team as powerful for good as nature unwatched is powerful for evil.

Rest can be overdone in the treatment of burns, fractures, injuries or wounds. At a certain stage in the healing process it may be necessary to manipulate, move or use the injured part regularly in order to prevent deformity from scar or adhesions and here, again, must be nature watched by the physician, in the welfare of the patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Just What to Do

My doctor tells me I have an ulcer of the stomach. What would you advise me to do? (P. B.)
Answer—Either follow your doctor's orders or, if you think he was fooling, consult some other doctor in whom you can put confidence.

Army Clothing

Will hosing kill all germs? A friend bought some underwear from one of the government stores. This clothing has all been worn by soldiers. I argue that even hosing does not prevent all danger. (Mrs. D. M. W.)
Answer—All such goods offered for sale to the public have been sterilized by the army authorities. There is no danger involved in purchasing any clothing or blankets that have been used in the army. Boiling five minutes would sufficiently disinfect underwear even if they were known to have been worn by a man with an infectious disease. Ordinary laundering sufficiently disinfects clothing or underclothing in general sanitary practice.

Weak Feet and Strong.

Can you tell me anything that will strengthen my weak feet? In the last few years I have become conscious of my feet and I am afraid they are going to give out. (F. W. L.)
Answer—If you will write to the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope, the orthopedic department will mail you gratis a pamphlet giving, with much other valuable foot knowledge, clear directions for exercises to strengthen the feet.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

Anglo-French Agreement
Presenting to the French Chamber of Deputies the latest of this winter's bumper crop of treaties, the draft of an Anglo-French alliance, ex-Premier Briand declared, in the American equivalent: "You've wanted something for three years, I've tried at Cannes to get it for you. Here it is, take it, or leave it; I'm through."

As the situation appears over here, the attitude of the French press indicates that unless the treaty is materially modified "the deputies may repeat what the United States Senate did to the Versailles treaty," as the HARVARD TIMES (Dem.) predicts, though from the American viewpoint it will be difficult to understand their position. Although Americans "do not think much of alliances, even for other nations," the ELMIRA STAR GAZETTE (Ind.) thinks there is not "much to criticize" in the proposed treaty between Great Britain and France. In it, the paper reports: "Great Britain pledges herself to go to the aid of France with all her fighting power, as she did in 1914, if France is attacked again by Germany." And Britain gets her full equivalent, as usual. French militarism is deprived of all legitimate excuse for being... Britain, moreover, will have a hand to shape the German reparations according to her own ideas, and to foster the revival of Central European industry, trade and consuming power for the sake of Britain's own business prosperity.

But the French press feels that in negotiating this agreement the Premier has made too many concessions. The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS (Ind.), says, and has offered a "one-sided bargain" for French approval. The HOUSTON CHRONICLE (Ind.) seems to feel the same way about it. In its opinion all Lloyd George has done in the matter is "to sell France an embossed declaration of prevailing sentiment for the purpose of getting by giving up 'her military program, her idea of coercing Germany, her unyielding posture toward reparations,' and she does all this merely in exchange 'for something which the whole world stands ready to give without recompense'."

Nevertheless the guarantee now offered France is exactly what she has been insisting upon, and the alliance will certainly be of greater value to her than to England, most American writers believe. Great Britain was not the prime factor in launching such an alliance, it is pointed out; indeed, it undertook "to guarantee French security," the BALTIMORE NEWS (Ind.) asserts, "only because the French announced that they will not play the game under other conditions," and while the proposal is meeting with opposition now that it has taken concrete form, the NEWS does not consider it serious, for "the French press," it says, "is good deal like the Old Guard, which does not like the new order." THE NEW YORK TIMES (Ind. Dem.) also does not believe that "France will miss the chance of striking hands with England in an agreement which would mean a great benefit to Europe and all the world."

With the commission of such an alliance "the best argument of the French chauvinists will be gone," the WESTON NEWS (S. C.) NEWS AND COURIER (Dem.) thinks, since "with England definitely bound" to stand by France, that country can no longer defend its military policy. For "while the British fleet controls the North Sea and is pledged to the defense of France," the NEWS says, "the French fleet is engaged in the defense of the English Channel." "There is not even a lunatic in Germany who would risk a war," thus with "the moral disarmament of Germany assured—the moral disarmament of France must follow," and the proposed alliance "offers France the opportunity to clear herself of the suspicion that she possesses a budding military power."

Indeed the CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) is hopeful that a way is now open "for a revision of the French program that will make every body happier." Primarily intended "to guard France" against possible German aggression," the TRIBUNE HERALD (Ind. Rep.) thinks, "that 'in the event of a German attack' will necessarily take a large scope, an it is used wisely it may do much to improve and stabilize both political and financial conditions in Europe." From that standpoint it is of vital interest to the United States, in the opinion of the ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT (Ind. Rep.), in admitting and accepting the alliance.

In the revival of European industry, it will quickly create a demand for material and foodstuffs that we can supply, and the stability that will be established will gradually restore sound financial conditions, making credits safe and interchange of commerce profitable.

France and England "have drifted so far apart in the three short years since the victory," observes the ALBANY (S. Dak.) WORLD (Ind.), "that they glare at each other now across the Channel," and one of the important achievements of the alliance would be a declaration of "the solidarity between the two allies which existed during the war."

Although the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS (Ind.) holds that American participation in the alliance will not be necessary, since "Belgium and Italy are reported to be ready to join the four-power arrangement," thus eventually during many years to come," the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL (Ind.) pleads for America to "butress" Great Britain's action "with a pledge of the same sort," for we can give it "and still proclaim our avoidance of entangling alliances," and such a declaration will do more for the abolition of war than any other imaginable thing.

Life in Prague

Paris.—Present day life in Prague Czechoslovakia, is interestingly described by a writer in LA VICTOIRE.

"When circumstances bring us again into contact with places or people, whom we have not seen for a long time we are almost afraid that their faces will have changed," he says. "We don't like changing our sentiments any more than our ideas and we can't help feeling a sort of gratitude towards the people, as well as towards places, which have remained as we remember them."

"Thus before speaking of more serious things I must tell how enchanted I was with Prague when I arrived. It is still the delightful town of former times, where art from all countries seems to have collected together in the most complete harmony. The Italian gardens, the Slav museums, the French schools, form by no means an incongruous collection, on the contrary. And, as formerly, we again revel in this wonderful architecture, of which a great deal is of the purest Gothic style."

"One magnificent example is the cathedral of Saint-Guy, the work of our compatriot Mathieu Arras. Then there is the church of the Nativity with the tomb of Tycho-Brahe, the master of Kepler who, about 1520, made the famous catalog of the stars; the basilica of Saint George, etc."

"Most of these churches are in the Hradcany, the Champs Elysees of the Bohemian kings. And the old palace, beauty seems to match the old palace, situated not far away in the Mala Strana."

"Mala Strana means the 'little corner,' which seems to be a very unsuitable name for this marvellous quarter, built in amphitheatre, overlooking the Petrin (one of the seven hills) which makes Prague a rival of Rome in this way."

"Seen from the Quay Masaryk, the Mala Strana, joined to the Staro Mesto (old town) by the curious bridge with statues said to be from the time of Charles IV, forms a wonderful panorama. The islands of Moldau look like immense vessels of green which leave the city and sail by a particularly mild autumn, play in the rays of the slowly setting sun...."

"There are many tourists in Prague," continues the writer, "and for those who can profit by the low rate of exchange, life is comparatively cheap. In the cafes all sorts of international papers are to be seen which are by aid and date from the day before."

"Political meetings are well attended, even by women, who here have the same rights as men."

"The streets are quiet but animated. Sometimes long processions are to be seen consisting of priests, women and children. These are Catholics, and the children often belong to the priests. Prisoner In Jail Crochets To Kill Time

Regulating the hours with a variety of work and pleasure, Louis Orphal of 885 Madison-st., who is serving a 60-days sentence in the county jail for the illegal manufacture and sale of "moonshine" is finding his incarceration less disagreeable than he at first expected. Among other things he finds a crochet hook very effective in chasing gloom away. Rising reasonably early in the morning, Orphal assists the housekeepers in various tasks about the jail and kitchen. In this respect he has proved himself a very apt assistant to the commissary. But even in a busy kitchen there are times in the day when the moments lag and the wheels go round less rapidly. Then he betakes himself to his crocheting in a quiet corner of the jail. Orphal is now busy in crocheting a fringe for a table cloth. It is going to be a long task but he expects to have it finished by the time he is released in March. All his needles, hooks and cotton were secured before he entered jail as he had anticipated this way of passing idle minutes. Crocheting, he says, is not new to him as he has done quite a lot of it during the last several years. When housework and crocheting grow tiresome, Orphal spends his time in reading.

TWO LAWMAKERS WILL TELL HOW LAWS ARE MADE

Catlin and Kuckuck Will Be Speakers at Next Chamber of Commerce Forum

Those who attend the next chamber of commerce forum meeting and dinner on the evening of Valentine's day will be told of the "inside" workings of the State Legislature by Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Appleton and Senator Antone Kuckuk of Shawano. The two speakers will tell how the legislative wheels go round in their branches of the state's lawmaking body and because only few people have knowledge of legislative methods even in their own states, it is expected that the two legislators will have a message of interest and helpfulness.

Activities of the San Jose chamber of commerce will be shown by motion pictures. This film was made by that chamber to give an idea of the work it is doing in reference to telling the story by a booklet or other printed or illustrated matter.

After the dinner members will elect a nominating committee which later will nominate ten persons for directors of the local chamber of commerce. From the ten named five directors will be chosen in a later election.

MOTHER! Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruit" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels, is often all that is necessary. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Linton Tells How Helpful Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is at This Period

Denver, Colorado.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for seven years and I cannot tell you the good it has done me. It is good for young and old and I always keep a bottle of it in the house, for I am at that time of life when it calls for Lydia E. Pinkham's help. My husband saw your ad. in the papers and said 'You have taken everything you can think of, now I want you to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I let him get it, and I soon felt better. He told me, 'I want you to take about six bottles.' So I did and I keep house and do all my own work and work out by the day and feel fine now. I tell every one about the Vegetable Compound, for so many of my friends thought I would not get well."—Mrs. R. J. Lintrop, 1850 West 33d Avenue, Denver, Colorado.

After reading letters like the above, and we are constantly publishing them, why should any woman hesitate to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she is in need of help? It brings relief where other medicines fail.

HEAR FIVE CLAIMS FOR COMPENSATION

Industrial Commission Is Holding Hearings Here Today.

Five claims for compensation under the workman's compensation act were up for adjustment before the Wisconsin Industrial Commission at a hearing in the courthouse Thursday.

Most of the forenoon session was occupied by the taking of testimony in the case of August Neubauer against the Soo Line. Neubauer who was employed as a section foreman asked indemnity for injuries received when he was hurt in entering the section tool house which brought on blood poison. The point under debate was whether Neubauer was engaged in interstate or intrastate commerce and granting of compensation depends upon his status in this respect.

The case of Mrs. Mary Jones against the Kimberly-Clark company was adjourned till the next hearing. Adjustment was made in the case of Dora E. Lee against the Turtle Lake Lumber company. The case of William Nelson against the Fox River Paper company had been settled between the parties and was withdrawn. Hearing of the case of John Priebe against the Eagle Manufacturing company was held at the afternoon session.

HOME TALENT PLAY IS GREAT SUCCESS

Moose Win New Honors in Presentation of "All a Mistake"

Kaukauna.—The Moose play "All a Mistake" was presented Wednesday evening before a filled house. All of the actors are amateurs most of them never having appeared on the stage before. The play earned more honors for the local Moose organization, considered the most active lodge in the Fox river valley.

Specialty numbers between acts by Everett Lindstrom and Harold Pearson were received as well as the play itself. The two men kept the audience in an uproar of laughter with their tongue twisting songs and ditties.

Elsworth Kastel, as George, a World war hero, took his leading part very well. He was the source of all the trouble which began when he arrived at his uncle's home with his new bride. Harry Laudert as uncle, however had his own ideas about the wife of his heir and without knowledge of his nephew's marriage, he attempted to make a match with the girl he had "appointed."

ings were as follows: Olive Gerhart, 23,600 votes, indicating a sale of 226
tickets; Blossom Balza, 12,300 votes.
Lucille Look entered the contest only last Saturday and had sold only a few

OUT OF THE HIGH RENT DISTRICT

Will Continue For
Two Days More

Through Friday and Saturday
January 27 and 28

WE must flash this news to you, and apologize for being incapable of handling the trade properly during the first day of our sale. The confusion, caused because of the lack of sufficient experienced help to deal with the big rush which kept up all day, resulted in everyone trying to help themselves and getting everything topsy-turvy, not being familiar with sizes or the garments which most properly would have suited them. This condition was the cause of a great number of people going out without being properly taken care of and to whom we wish to apologize.

When we announced the sale for TWO DAYS ONLY we never realized that it would be impossible to dispose of such a large stock in two days and yet do justice to our customers. So we will therefore continue Our Half Price Sale All This Week Including All Day Saturday, so all those who were unable to be properly taken care of on the first day will find the proper garment they were looking for and have the right attention during the continuance of this sale.

HARRY JACK IS NEW LEADER OF COUNTY EQUITY

Hortonville Man Succeeds Otto Rohm Who Declines Re-election

Harry Jack of Hortonville, former vice president, was elected president of the Outagamie county union of the American Society of Equity at the annual meeting at the courthouse Wednesday afternoon, succeeding Otto F. Rohm of Black Creek, who had served three terms and who announced he was not a candidate for re-election.

Other officers elected were: Frank Reimer, Greenville, vice president; George Schmitt, Greenville, secretary; William Marasch, New London, treasurer; and Walter Blake, Black Creek, director. A dairy committee consisting of one member from each local was appointed. Black Creek was selected as the place for holding the next quarterly meeting.

The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock in the morning by President Rohm and the first order of business was the selection of a credit committee which consisted of: William Marasch of New London; George Schmitt of Greenville; and S. Mews of Hortonville.

Other committees selected were: Resolution—William Prochnow, New London; F. Reimer, Greenville; E. Magadan, Hortonville; A. Buboltz, Sugar Bush; Edward Holz, Seymour; Augusting—R. J. Doersch, Seymour; Walter Blake, Black Creek; E. F. Gosse, Seymour; special committee to purchase a gift for former secretary William M. Hurst of Seymour—Frank Reimer, William Lepphard and Adolph Guerka.

WELL ATTENDED
The first business taken up at the afternoon session was the seating of delegates. The condition of the roads kept many from attending the meeting, but notwithstanding four delegates were seated from New London; three from Black Creek; five from Hortonville, five from Seymour, one from North Cleary; two from Sugar Bush, ten from Common Sense local; and five from Drexel local. By special action Herman Sievert was seated as a delegate of Five Corners local and L. J. Brooker as a delegate from Seymour.

The report of William Marasch, secretary showed a balance in the treasury of close to $300.

Two resolutions, one favoring the Great Lakes Lawrence river waterway project and the other favoring the Dairymen's League were unanimously passed.

WIPE OUT DEBT
The special committee appointed to procure a gift for the former secretary, William M. Hurst of Seymour exhibited a handsome loving cup on which is to be engraved before its presentation, "Presented by Outagamie county Union of the American Society of Equity to William M. Hurst, 1921."

A campaign is to be made to clean up the union's debt and two plans were submitted by the presiding officer, one by solicitation and the other through the sale of Dr. Hartwig's book, "Veterinary Secrets," and through lectures to be given by him. The latter plan was most favored by the chair who announced as a committee to take charge of the matter William Marasch of New London, W. A. Blake of Black Creek; Frank Reimer, Greenville; Charles Reimer, Sugar Bush; Emil Gosse, Black Creek; R. J. Doersch, Seymour; Walter Behrend, Hortonville; Edward Holz, Black Creek; Herman Siebert, Five Corners.

What Kind Of Food Would You Serve A Sick Person?

"Now, when Johnny had his tonsils out, he wouldn't eat anything and I had to rack my brains to think of food which would tempt him," said an anxious mother.

Johnny is not the only one who could not eat after his tonsils were removed and what would not the home nurse have given for a new idea for a custard or a new way of serving milk toast. How often do sick persons speak enthusiastically of food one day only to turn it down flatly the next day.

Readers of the Post-Crescent could make no larger contribution to the cookery equipment of the city than to send all their ideas for sick folks' food to the nearest editor at once. If you have a tasty broth, an attractive custard or a pretty way of serving food to sick people, send your idea at once to the contest editor. Only one prize will be given this week. Here are more cakes:

A. S. BRADFORD IS ADMITTED TO COURT

Young Man Now Can Practice Law Before All the Courts in the State

Alfred S. Bradford was formally admitted to the bar of the state Wednesday before Judge E. V. Werner in Outagamie county circuit. Motion asking his admission was made to the court by his father, Attorney Francis S. Bradford. By virtue of his admission before the court here the young man can now practice before all circuit and minor courts in the state.

His admission to practice before the state supreme court occurred Monday when he together with other graduates of Wisconsin University law college took the oath before that court. Mr. Bradford graduated last June but, under the rules, he could not receive his degree until he had spent six months in actual practice. His degree as bachelor of laws was awarded him by the board of regents last week and will be formally conferred at the university commencement exercises next June. Mr. Bradford will engage in the practice of law with his father here.

Why Grow Old Before Your Time?

It isn't years alone that make one old. Many folks are younger at 70 than others are at 50. A lame, bent back; stiff, aching joints; rheumatic pains; bad eyesight; and bladder irregularities are often due to kidney weakness and not advancing years. Don't let weak kidneys age you. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have made life more comfortable for thousands of elderly folks. Ask your neighbor!

My kidneys acted too often and I had awful headaches and spells of dizziness. I also was run down, but when I had an attack, I used Doan's Kidney Pills from Voigt's Drug store and they always benefited me."

ICE HARVEST IS NEARLY FINISHED

Lutz Ice Co. has finished harvesting its crop of ice for the coming season and Wednesday was engaged in filling the ice houses of St. Elizabeth hospital and Petersen & Rehbein. The only ice house that still remains to be filled is that of the Appleton Pure Milk Co. The ice this year is 20 inches thick and of exceptional quality. The company had no trouble in getting all the help it needed. The scale of wages was $3 a day, a reduction of $1 from its last summer's scale. The company made no prediction as to the price of ice next summer.

Laundry Moves

The Canton laundry opposite the postoffice will move Feb. 1 to the building immediately west of the new Brandt building on College ave., formerly used as a harness shop and recently purchased by Joseph Belzer. The change was made necessary because the building the laundry occupies has been sold to Henry Wolters, who expects to renege in the manufacture of cigars.

The STEP on the STAIRS

by ISABEL OSTRANDER

Professor Semenov replied blandly: "The policeman on guard outside Miss Shaw's door happened to be an old acquaintance. He helped me to open the small skylight in the main hall which led to the roof. From there I descended the fire escape to the window of Miss Shaw's studio and found her huddled up in a bare, hard chair in a slumber that I fear was not a normal one, for a small carton of tablets was beside her. I went through the entire attic, examined the pitifully few garments and other things which she had pointed out to me, nor any radiator save soap."

"Climbing farther down the fire escape past the windows of my own apartment, I came to those of my neighbor, Henry Griswold. His dreams must have been of the small puncture which had penetrated it, and turning, I looked over at that dark and silent house across the strip of garden. Some of its blank, staring windows were directly in line and I wondered—"

Not another word on the subject could Barry persuade that eccentric scientist to utter and the latter departed, still smiling, to leave the detective in a decidedly reflective frame of mind. Time pressed, however, and descending the stairs Sergeant Barry easily persuaded Kedge to unlock the door of Henry Griswold's.

"The dog!" muttered Barry. "The old stuffed dog!"

"When I had completed my search there I left as I had come. That portion of the fire escape ends on the floor below as you know, on the skylight of Mrs. Vane's studio, but a walk-way runs around the edge to the outside row of windows of the extension, where the second section of the fire escape begins and continues to the street."

"Was Gordon Ladd out or asleep?" demanded Barry, half incredulously. Professor Semenov smiled meaningfully.

"Neither, at first. When I appeared at the window of my studio I could see through the door that led into his living room. He was tramping up and down, and though I do not pretend to be a psychologist, I would be willing to swear that sorrow alone, grief, or what at his heart-strings, was reflected upon his face. He was in solitude, aware of no eavesdropper, and yet I saw no signs of either grief or fear."

"You returned then, Professor, the way you had come?"

"Yes, for a sojourn made from a formula of my own which is less harmful and more effective than that in which Miss Shaw had indulged. With it I returned by way of the fire escape to Mr. Ladd's window and rapped on the casement. He was astonished and resentful, but when I made myself known to him not only as his neighbor but as the person you know at headquarters, he admitted me. I think the poor young man was glad of someone to talk to, for after your departure the full import of what had occurred must have descended upon him. We had a sympathetic little hour in which I learned much that had no bearing upon the crime but which I will tell you of later, and at its end he was quite willing to take the opiate a little rest and a little success from his grief. He fell into a deep sleep almost at once, but it was then morning and I could make only a superficial search. There was turpentine nowhere but in his studio."

"So we drew a blank, eh, Professor Semenov?" Barry shrugged. "Sorry to have kept you up all night and made that request of you for nothing, but I had a hunch that someone who had no business to do so had touched that portrait of Mrs. Van-Sittart last night when the paint was wet and brought away traces that they would try to get rid of at all costs."

It was the professor's turn to shrug.

"I know nothing of that, for I have not yet heard what you may have to tell me, my friend, but the turpentine I did find, and in a most unlikely place," he observed. "You forget that horrible stuffed dog in the apartment of Henry Griswold."

"No," responded Sergeant Barry, thoughtfully, "I have not forgotten the dog."

CHAPTER VIII

"You may have forgotten the dog, but I have not forgotten my breakfast!" Professor Semenov laughed. "You have had yours, Sergeant? Then while I make my tea I hold you to your promise to tell me what was permissible of your investigations."

"It seems fairly evident, then, that Miriam Vane, the portrait painter, was born only a few years ago," he remarked when the detective finished. "I wonder who inhabited that splendid body before that, and what havoc she wrought in the lives of men and women?"

"Oh, undoubtedly she buried a past of some kind, but as I told the chief, it need not have been a discreditable one." Barry's matter-of-fact tone was in sharp contrast to the dreamy, almost mystic note which had come into the Russian's voice.

"And the empty cartridge shell?" the professor reminded him. "No. My friend. That was her ghost of Banquo!"

"I think so, myself." The sergeant rose. "I won't keep you from your laboratory any longer now, professor."

"Will you let me know the real report of the medical examiner after the autopsy? The full report, whether it is all given out to the press or not?" asked Professor Semenov. "I make reference to the thin, dry lips, 'Mopus'! She called him that!"

In spite of himself the detective started slightly.

"But you have calculated that already, sir. You said last night after we returned here to your rooms that it must have been fired by someone she knew who was in the studio with her and that she may have turned from her canvas to speak to this person and so presented the opportunity for an unaimed aim."

Again the professor smiled and this time it was with a significance which told Barry that it would be useless to dissemble.

"You forget that I spoke then before I had made my search of all the apartments in trace of turpentine!"

Again the professor smiled and this time it was with a significance which told Barry that it would be useless to dissemble.

"You forget that I spoke then before I had made my search of all the apartments in trace of turpentine!"

A harsh, choking cry replied to him and Henry Griswold staggered over to the chair by the table and flinging his arms wide buried his face in them.

MARSHFIELD BANK RUINED BY FIRE

By United Press Leased Wire
Marshfield, Wis.—Fire of unknown origin early Wednesday destroyed the interior of the Marshfield State bank here at a loss estimated at more than $50,000.

The law offices of C. B. Edwards and Fors and Fors also were badly damaged. Excellent work of the local firemen saved what seemed certain destruction to the entire block in which the bank building was located.

Hugo Weyner, one of the directors of the bank said Wednesday that the loss would exceed $50,000 but that the loss was partly covered by insurance.

Greatest War Heroine Is Fighting Hardest Battle To Prove She Is Alive

Miss Alene E. Frawley, Wounded 17 Times, is Dead So Far as War Department Records Show — Wears Many Bravery Decorations.

San Antonio, — America's greatest woman World War hero, Miss Alene E. Frawley, who has been wounded and shot, buried alive and bombed and carries 17 wound stripes on her coat sleeve, is now facing what she calls the toughest job of all—

That of proving to the world that she is still alive!

And all this because, following the bombing of an emergency hospital in the trenches at Chateau Thierry, she was officially reported "dead" in the government war casualty records.

"A. E. F."—that's what the boys "over there" called her, because of her initials—headed for France two months after the United States entered the war. She joined up with the 90th Division as a member of the United States Army Nurse Corps.

SURVIVES BLAST

Then things began to happen rapidly. Wound stripes after wound stripes went on her sleeve.

At Tours a hospital was blown up. All but two persons in the building were killed. She was one of the two. In another case a piece of shrapnel broke her finger, caromed and killed a man.

Fourteen other wounds came, all while she was on the front, and then the "fatal" blast, when the trench hospital was blown to pieces. "Killed in action" was the report after her name.

In the meantime American soldiers dug her out of the ruins and took her to a hospital where she remained unconscious for 27 days. A year and eight months later she left the hospital and was sent to the Walter Reed General Hospital at Washington.

Miss Frawley's mother and her stepfather had long believed her dead. Several installments of cash and insurance had been paid to the family.

Then came a telegram stating that Miss Frawley's "body" was being sent to the hospital.

Wondering why a "body" would be sent to a hospital, the parents went to Washington where they found Miss Frawley alive but feeble.

Shortly after Miss Frawley was taken to San Antonio to recuperate in a cottage just outside the military reservation of Fort Sam Houston. At that time she weighed 86 pounds and was able to walk only on crutches.

Today she weighs 122 and has discarded one of the crutches.

FIGHTS TO CHANGE RECORDS

And, in the meantime, everything is being done to blot out the record that she was "killed in action." Mrs. Frawley has made affidavits that Miss Frawley is her daughter and not an impostor and the wheels are beginning to turn that will straighten out the mixup, Miss Frawley believes.

Miss Frawley was born near Rochester, N. Y. Her own father was a doctor and her mother was a trained nurse. Before going to Europe Miss Frawley had served as nurse in the Philippines, China, Hawaii and Panama.

Besides her 17 wound stripes this greatest woman hero wears a Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre and many other lesser decorations.

CALDER WAS TIRED OF CARRYING INVITATIONS

Washington—The champion invitation bearer—President Harding, Senator Calder of New York, has balked. During his almost daily call at the White House since March 4 he has asked the president to attend probably fifty banquets and conventions in New York.

"So he declared war today when White House reporters asked him if the Lady Hack Drivers of Brooklyn had renewed their request that President Harding attend their annual convention."

"I'm through extending invitations," he announced. "I send them in by mail now."

Shoulders Are Important To Well Dressed

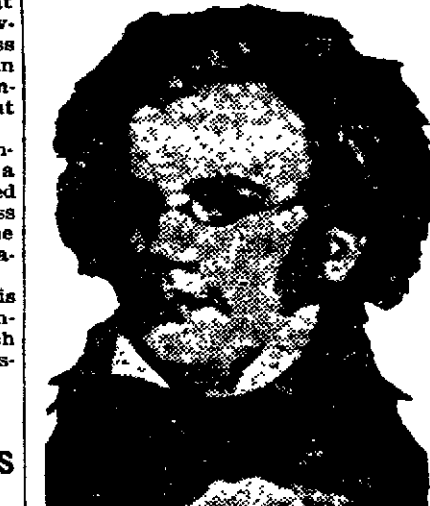

By Miriam Hale

New York. — Shoulders—once a comparatively unimportant consideration in the gowning of women—have come to be a real factor.

Capes, wraps cut loose on cape lines, and blouses with cape shoulders have made it necessary that the well-dressed girl give much thought to her shoulder line and make careful selections.

Regardless of how modish the cape garment is it will not look well on shoulders which are too thick. The plump must forego it.

FRANZ PETER SCHUBERT

Austrian Composer of Early Nineteenth Century

Franz Peter Schubert (1797-1828) was a native of Vienna, where he lived during his short life. The contemporary and admirer of the great Beethoven, Schubert is the most pathetic and interesting personality in music.

Possessed of a gift for spontaneous melody, he composed almost unknown. The greatest of his works he never heard, and many were produced years after his death.

Schubert wrote in all forms. He left over six hundred and fifty songs, many part songs and Masses, eighteen dramatic works, twenty-four piano sonatas, twenty string quartets, many overtures and ten symphonies. All of Schubert's music is romantic and beautiful, but his chief contribution to musical literature were his wonderful songs.

AVE MARIA

The poem which inspired Schubert to write this beautiful song is found in Sir Walter Scott's Lady of the Lake. It combines stately melody with intense religious fervor in an unexcelled manner. Unusually effective transcriptions of this song have been made for the violin and cello and it is found in the repertoire of all the great virtuosos.

This selection may be had in the following phonograph record, Edison 52536.

Polly and Paul--and Paris

Chapter 21—The Paverel Frook

BY ZOE BECKLEY

The brown-and-orange frock came home from Paverel's, and Polly took it from its plastic wrapping with trembling fingers. She could not afford to have this one go wrong.

She had watched every stage of its progress from its silken lining, so carefully fitted to her slim figure, to the last detail of its finish. And it was, she told herself holding it up against her a perfect thing—a creation of art.

It was a joy just to look at the delicious luster of the silk, the rich tint of it, the way it "almost stood alone" as she propped it on the bed-like Aunt Sue's "best black" that had lasted 30 years!

Polly could hardly wait for Paul to come home and be shown the masterpiece. Of course it has cost a lot. But when you paid a lot and got something for it, there wasn't a feeling of guilt.

She heard her husband's step. Before he flung open the door, Polly rushed the dress out of sight.

"Oh, Paul, I've got something to show you!" She drew back, beaming, from her kiss of greeting. "Shut your eyes and don't peep while I get it arranged."

"Now—behold!" She drew back, waiting.

Paul turned, approached the dress casually, pinched the sleeve between his thumb and finger. "It's a nice little dress—put it on."

"But—but Paul! Don't you like it, dear?"

"Sure I do. But I can't tell much till you wear it. Does brown suit you? When will the one from Paverel be ready?"

Polly tried to speak, but could only manage a gasp. She sat down quickly in the nearest chair. — And she thought he would rave. Her beautiful, carefully-chosen painstakingly supervised Paverel frock! And he didn't even guess it was the Paverel. Well—there was simply no use expecting a man to understand dress. Polly was heart sick.

"What is it, dear—don't look like that. I tell you I do like it. It's real cutie. I bet you'll look a dream in it. You'd make any dress look swell."

"But—Oh, Paul—" Polly could hardly keep the tears out of her voice, "don't you understand? It is the Paverel. I suppose it looks to you like a cheap little hand-me-down from a department store, and it's one of the loveliest models Paverel had. Why, it—it cost a—perfect fortune!"

Paul looked blank. He said nothing but examined the frock again, clumsily.

"What do you call a fortune?" He figured hastily what he paid for his own suits—something between $60 and $80 perhaps—

"A—hundred and eighty—and the tax," breathed Polly.

"Whew!" whistled Paul and fell silent.

Polly was so hurt she dared say nothing for fear of tears—or an angry outburst. She began putting the frock back into the box.

"Of course it's all right, dear," said Paul. "Vio Rand knows clothes, and if she helped you choose it, it's a swell little dud. I knew Violet would—"

This was too much. "Miss Rand had nothing to do with it," blazed Polly. "I'd rather wear a potato-sack than have her choose my clothes! It's cruel of you to suggest that she knows more than I do about what's right for me. I hate her—I hate her—I hate her!"

Polly turned suddenly, catching her breath, and darted into the little dressing room. Paul fled after her. But the key turned in the lock.

Supper For Your Party

If you would serve a simple supper after a skating party or basket ball game why not have "Hot Dog" sandwiches? A hot fruit drink, pickles and ginger bread?

The whole thing is so easy to manage that you could do it all yourself. The table should be arranged with a sufficient number of plates and napkins in piles, a dish of pickles, the glasses for the drink, and a plate for the sandwiches and another for the ginger bread.

Then the rolls should be split and buttered and wrapped up in a cloth and put in the bread box, the ingredients for the drink ready to mix and the wieners on a plate with a sharp knife beside them ready to split. When the time comes it won't take but a minute to have everything ready for the "crowd" to come out in the dining room and help themselves.

"Hot Dog" Sandwiches

Short, fat wieners (one for each girl and two for each boy), long rolls, Bermuda onion, prepared mustard.

Split wieners lengthwise and open out flat, but do not cut in two. Broil on a hot griddle or iron frying pan that has been lightly oiled. Brown first one side and then on the other. Reheat the rolls and put a wiener in each one. Put minced onion on half the sandwiches and put these on a separate plate from the others.

Hot Fruit Drink

One-half cup sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1/2 cup lard, 2-3 cups flour, 2 eggs, 1 cup boiling water, 2 teaspoons soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, ginger and cloves, 1 cup nut meats.

Cream lard and sugar. Add molasses and mix well. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Add nuts before stirring mix well. Dissolve soda in boiling water

APPLETON LOSES TO NEENAH IN OVERTIME GAME

WALL'S LUCKY SHOT COPS 20 TO 18 VICTORY

Rejuvenated Appleton Team Plays Wonderful Game Against Neenah

Wall's perfect finger—a field goal from a long shot and a difficult angle—broke an 18 to 18 tie and gave the Neenah Booster basketball team a 20 to 18 victory over the Appleton quintet Wednesday night on the Neenah armory floor in a 5-minute overtime battle. Wall's basket came after two minutes of play in the extra session and was the only score made in the five minute period.

The Boosters came from behind to win from the Appleton quintet. Outplaying their opponents throughout the contest by a narrow margin Appleton had a five point lead after six minutes of play in the second half when the Boosters started a spurt and hitting for field goals from all angles tied up the score with less than two minutes to play. The half ended with the count even, 18 to 18.

GAME IS FAST
The game was fast and furious from start to finish and was featured by strong defensive work, sensational field goals from long shots and rough playing. The Boosters put over the first score after four minutes of play when Gebhart sunk a field goal from under the hoop. Chappelle came back a few seconds later and scored a free throw for Appleton. He repeated with a free throw and the score was tied. Clever passing and fast floor work by the Appleton players brought the ball down the court where Chappelle registered with a finger from under the basket. Wall hit for a field goal from the center of the floor and the score was tied. Chappelle missed a free throw but recovered the ball off the bank and shot a field goal. Both teams missed easy shots at the hoop. Gebhart and Chappelle each made a free throw. Madison tied the score with a finger from the center of the floor. Anderson recovered the ball off the bank and dribbled the length of the floor. He passed the ball to Chappelle under the hoop who sunk a field goal. Gebhart hit with a free throw a few seconds before time was called and the half ended with Appleton on the long end of a 9 to 8 count.

LOCALS GOING STRONG
Appleton started with a rush in the second half. Belch got the ball on the tip-off and registered a field goal from a difficult angle. The ball went out of bounds on the second tip-off of the half. It was passed in to Belch who shot another field goal. Wall counted a free throw for the Boosters and came back a few minutes later with a finger from near the center of the floor. Fay registered a field goal from a corner shot and the score was tied. Appleton took the lead again when Chappelle registered a free throw. Appleton took the ball down the floor on short passes and Belch scored with a field goal from under the hoop. Loose sunk a field goal from in front of the basket. Wall got possession of the ball under the Boosters' basket, dribbled the length of the floor and shot a field goal from under the hoop. Fay put the ball in the basket from a long try a few seconds before the half ended and the score was tied.

The overtime session was fast and furious with both teams shooting wild at the basket. The tusslers battled up and down the floor and took many long shots at the hoops. Wall came out of a scrimmage near the center of the floor in possession of the ball and took a try at the hoop. The ball sailed through the net for a counter. Rough and tumble work featured the remainder of the period but neither team was able to put over a score.

The Appleton quintet put up the best brand of basketball it has shown this season. Chappelle led the team in scoring with three field goals and four free throws to his credit. Belch made three field goals and Loose one. Anderson and Allanger put up a strong defense for Appleton and gave the Boosters few easy tries at the hoop. Wall and Fay starred for Neenah.

The summary follows:

Appleton.....Neenah
Chappelle.....F.....Gebhart
Belch.....F.....Madison
Loose.....C.....Wall
Anderson.....G.....Kuehl
Allanger.....G.....Fay
Substitutions—Jones for Madison, Madison for Jones, Jones for Wall, Wall for Madison.

Field goals—Chappelle 3, Belch 3, Loose 1, Wall 3, Fay 2.
Free throws—Chappelle 4, Gebhart 1, Wall 1.
Referee—Denney.

LAWRENCE OUT TO BUMP BELOIT FRIDAY EVENING

State Line Squad Has Perfect Record So Far This Season

Inspired with confidence because of the wins over Milton and Ripon colleges, Lawrence basketball players are set for the big game with Beloit in Alexander gymnasium Friday night. Beloit comes here after playing Ripon Thursday night.

The State line school is hard after the Little Five title this year. It has won every game it has started and is going better every week. Beloit has several real stars in its lineup and the squad is very well drilled.

McChesney's crew has been handicapped some this week because the ambitions and in practice regularity. They have put in only two afternoons on the gymnasium floor and it is feared that this lack of practice may have a bad effect when they stack up against the pennant seekers.

Lawrence had little hope of being a real contender in the basketball race when the season opened. The easy victory over Kimberly gave the boys a lot of confidence, however, and then they wallowed Milton and Ripon. Now they feel they are in the swim for fair and are determined to give Beloit a bump Friday night.

Visiting teams are handicapped when they play here because of the small playing floor and long hanging rafters. Long shots are very difficult in the local hall because the ball cannot be looped high enough. Basing however, has picked out the spots where shots are possible and is ringing baskets from the center of the floor with great regularity.

The big battle begins at 8 o'clock and it is believed it will be attended by a record breaking crowd.

DENIES MITCHELL WILL FIGHT JOHNNY DUNDEE

Milwaukee—Billy Mitchell, manager of Richie Mitchell, local lightweight, Thursday denied reports that Richie had signed to meet Johnny Dundee here March 3.

EISCH THINKS HE CAN WALLOP ZWICK

Frank Eisch, Appleton boxer, has announced that he is willing to meet Jack Zwick, Kaukauna pride, in a boxing match on a winner take all basis. Zwick administered the K. O. to Eisch in the second round in a recent match in the armory but the Appleton scrapper feels his stage fright was responsible for his defeat. Now that he has been initiated into the ring, Eisch feels he is a match for the Kaukauna man. Eisch's trainers was hoping to hear from a promoter who will put on the match.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Tonight, the pins begin falling in the state bowling tournament at Madison and daily for four weeks there will be something doing on the alleys from nine in the morning until midnight. More than 900 5-man teams are entered and the prize money exceeds $12,000. Bowling is booming this year and every indication points to the alley classic being a record breaker every respect.

A couple of the Milwaukee papers appear to take special delight to knock the Wisconsin Professional Basketball league for a goal whenever the opportunity presents itself. We can't understand their attitude because the caging circuit has made rapid progress towards putting the caging sport on a firm foundation in this rock of the woods. Possibly this may be just a case of "sour grapes" because the league teams are refusing to book the Bright Spots at their high money demand.

We wonder if the magnates in the proposed Fox River Valley League are letting grass grow under their feet. Not a deep has been heard out of them since a preliminary organization meeting late in the fall. There has been rumors galore about the ball wheel but aside from the election of officers nothing concrete has been given out. May be the executives are planning a surprise for the fans. Let's hope they unburden themselves soon.

Father Knickerbocker will have to journey forth from his own backyard this fall to see the Army-Navy game because the annual "military" clash has been switched from the Polo Grounds to Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

MADISON FIVES START STATE PIN TOURNAMENT

With the exception of Saturday morning, when 110 Madison men roll in singles and doubles, the alleys will be filled by five man teams.

Today's Sport Angle

By Billy Evans
The sport pages carried a very interesting item the other day. "The Pacific Coast League has decided to use the rubber-center ball the coming season," read the news item.

On the surface perhaps there doesn't appear to be anything unusual about such an item, yet to the ball player and manager, as well as club owner, it carried an important message.

It has always been customary for the baseball leagues to use a standardized ball. At one time the rubber-center ball was generally used. Then by experiment the manufacturers of baseballs went to the use of the cork-center ball.

This was regarded as a step forward in the manufacture of baseballs. Practically all the leagues, as well as the amateurs and semi-professionals, shifted to the cork center.

There is no question but that the action of the rubber center and cork center are different. Ball players will tell you there is a different feel to the ball. That is their way of explaining it.

The Pacific Coast League is one of the three big minor leagues. Its ranking is just a shade below the major leagues.

For so big a league to adopt a ball that will differ from the ball in general use, is of great interest to those interested in baseball from a playing and business standpoint.

There will be an air of uncertainty attached to the records made in the coast league, because of the use of a ball that is different from the generally accepted type.

Whether or not there is anything to it, the rubber-center ball will be given as the reason for all things good or bad, that happen in the coast league this year.

YOUNG MEN'S TEAM WILL PLAY FIRST GAME TONIGHT

A GRATEFUL WOMAN'S STORY

Mrs. Robert Blair, 461 S. 20th St. Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "I suffered two years with kidney and bladder trouble. After taking Foley Kidney Pills a few short weeks I found my trouble gradually disappearing. The backaches stopped and I am also free from those tired spells and headaches, and my vision is no longer blurred." Foley Kidney Pills help the kidneys keep the blood clean and eliminate the impurities that cause backache, rheumatic pains, sore, stiff and swollen joints and muscles.
